DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed on Sept. 10, 2004 have been fully considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 6 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. A method wherein the reticle is an aperture is not disclosed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 10, 11, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takahashi (6,665,049).

Takahashi discloses a method of in-situ measurement of optical aberration comprising producing an illumination at low partial coherence and chief rays filling an entrance pupil with plurality of light ray bundles onto a plurality of locations on a reticle (col. 18, lines 19–67); exposing measurement fiducials of an encoded face of an optical element onto a sensing plane; measuring relative positions of the exposed measurement fiducials on the sensing plane (col. 22, line 19 – col. 23, line 13); and determining the optical aberration from the measured positions and known relative positions of the fiducials (col. 22, lines 19-50). Takahashi discloses fiducials that are crosses (Fig. 10 A-C).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi in view of Zheng et al. (Zheng) (2001/0017693).

Takahashi discloses the claimed invention as discussed above; however, Takahashi does not disclose fiducials that are square toruses and fiducials that are alignment marks. Zheng discloses in Fig. 1, fiducials that are squares. Zheng also discloses that the test reticle is used to accurately align the image (para 0009). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to provide the square fiducials of Zheng and alignment marks of Zheng in order to accurately place the image and compensate for aberration as taught by Zheng in para 0009-0011.

Art Unit: 2851

Claims 12-14, 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi in view of Matsuyama et al. (Matsuyama) (2002/0171815).

Takahashi discloses the claimed invention as discussed above; however, Takahashi does not disclose an illumination modifying optic of a diffuser or an opaque disk with a hole in it. Matsuyama discloses an illumination modifying optic of an opaque disk with a hole in it (Fig. 2, ref. 7L) or a diffuser (para 0493). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to provide the modifying optic of Matsuyama to the invention of Takahashi in order to illuminate the fiducials on the reticle as taught by Matsuyama in para 0022-0026.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
